In a fictional northern country, two village leaders will fight each other. It is the year 568 a.d., Kovo, village chief of Ruter, uses violence to the bride of Toryok, village chief of Nyssia, and kills her, then runs away and joins to the Longobards of Alboino marching towards Italy. In spring 570, Kovo returns to Ruter: accompany Lianora, fair maid, and an army of Lombards. Toryok, that during this time, he always thought about revenge, unleash war and after a series of bloody clashes, destroys the village of Ruter.
